

Across The Lawn

A Quarterly Newsletter
for
H & R Lawn and Landscape Customers

Autumn 2001

Volume 5.2

Light Up for Winter!

It's really not too soon to start thinking about what your landscape will look like through the winter months. When Daylight Savings Time is over, don't let your landscape be left in the dark. Now's the time to contact H & R Lawn and Landscape for an overall Landscape Lighting Analysis.

We can show you which features of your landscape will benefit from lighting and how security and safety can be assured with adequate and tasteful lighting. Call H & R today to schedule your Lighting Analysis.

We Light up the Night!
H&R Lawn & Landscape

Winter Pond Preparation

Preparing your water garden for winter is not a time-consuming task. After the first freeze, cut leaves and foliage of water plants down to the soil and sink the pots in the deepest part of the pond. Waterfalls may be left running all winter if they have a good volume of flow. "Trickle" type waterfalls should be turned off and a stock tank heater placed in the pond so the water surface doesn't freeze completely over. As long as the pond is deeper than the frost line, fish and frogs should winter over well. Stop feeding the fish in mid October, even on warm days when they beg for food, they can't digest it. If you have questions about your water garden, call us at 807-9705.

H&R Lawn and Landscape World Headquarters

Many of our customers have known us for years, but they don't know where we are located. Our mail goes to a Post Office Box in Southern Johnson County and our newly expanded facilities are just south of there. Since we normally visit your homes, we thought we would invite you to see ours. This photo, taken in June 2001, shows our facilities with enlarged pond, expanded nursery area nursery stock irrigation and new vehicle barn. This is our part of the "greener world" we're always working towards. For a closer look at our operation and to meet some of the folks we work with, visit our newly updated website at www.handrlawn.com.

913-897-9705 H & R Lawn & Landscape
www.handrlawn.com